Many cities owe their origin to accident; some to design. In the latter category may be placed most of those that sprang up upon this western earth's end, and notably San Francisco. When the Englishman Richardson moved over from Sauzalito to Yerba Buena Cove in the summer of 1835, and cleared a place in the chaparral for his trading-tent; when the American Jacob P. Leese came up from Los Angeles, and in connection with his friends of Monterey, William Hinckley and Nathan Spear, erected a substantial frame building and established a commercial house there in the summer of 1836--it would appear that these representatives of the two foremost nations of the world, after mature deliberation, had set out to lay the foundation of a west-coast metropolis. The opening of the Hudsons Bay Company branch establishment in 1841 added importance to the hamlet. Although founded on the soil and under the colors of Anahuac, it never was a Mexican settlement, for the United States element ever predominated, until the SITE SELECTED. 165 spirit of 76 took formal possession under symbol of the American flag, wafted hither over subdued domains. The inducements for selecting the site lay in its proximity to the outlet of the...
